Last Blast!

Read & Win

The Read & Win a Day at the Fair program offers young readers, from K through grade 8, a chance to visit the fair if they read at least three books during the summer. Kids who participate visit their local libraries and receive vouchers for the books they read, which they can redeem to get a free pass to the Fair on Kids' Day, Monday, Aug. 31. A special performance of the Big Top Circus will be presented, and participating students will have other free gifts as well. The annual program is sponsored by the Champlain Valley Exposition, International Association of Fairs and Expositions, Reithoffer Shows, Chittenden County Dairy Promotion and generous donations from Ned and Janet Austin and Don and Rose Sutton. With support from Star 92.9. Read & Win a Day at the Fair supports the overall mission of the Champlain Valley Exposition.

The Champlain Valley Exposition is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, dedicated to promoting agriculture, education, commerce and entertainment for Vermonters and the region. As a nonprofit, the Exposition depends on both event revenues and public and private support to fulfill its mission. The Champlain Valley Fair, as the preeminent event for the Exposition, contributes to the economic well-being of educational and agricultural pursuits. Your participation in supporting the Exposition's mission is welcomed. Contact Walt Bruska, Corporate Secretary, at (802) 878-5545 x. 19 or e-mail wbruska@cvexpo.org. See our web site, cvexpo.org, for more details.

Fair School Field Trips

Friday is School Field Trip Day at the Fair when more than a thousand students visit the agricultural and competitive exhibits for a hands-on experience to learn about Vermont's agricultural heritage, animals and local food. This year, thanks to a generous grant from the KeyBank Foundation, the program is being offered free to all students in Vermont. If you are interested in scheduling a field trip for the 2010 Champlain Valley Fair, contact info@cvexpo.org, call 802-878-5545, or visit www.cvexpo.org for details.
